PRIDE & PREJUDICE THE PARLOR GAME

A laugh-out-loud mash-up party game for everyone, whether you loved the novel or barely skimmed it.

$24.99 • Boxed game of cards 4<sup>1</sup>/8" x 6<sup>2</sup>/5" x 2<sup>1</sup>/2 4+ players 9781423656630

- Each player begins with ten white response cards. Each response card is a word or phrase pulled directly from Jane Austen's Pride & Profusice.
- 2. The last person to have read a Jane Austen novel will go first as the Parlor Game Judge. The judge randomly selects one black prompt card from the box and reads the neurons alexed. the prompt aloud.
- 3. The rest of the players then choose a response card from The rest of the prayers then choose a response care from their dealt hand that best completes the prompt. Chosen cards are placed face down in front of the judge.
- The judge collects the cards, gives them a brief shuffle (to keep the eards anonymous), and proceeds to read the response cards aloud.
- 5. The judge selects which response card is the best fit for their prompt card.
- Whosever response eard is chosen is the winner of that round and keeps the black prompt card.
- All players (except the black prompt card.
   All players (except the judge) replenish their hand; everyone should always have ten response cards to choose from.
- Move counterclockwise to determine the order of the next Parlor Game Judge.
- The game is won when a single player has collected ten prompt cards.

FIND MORE PARLOR GAMES AT LOVELITGIFTS.COM.

a ball a a fine figure such perfect a woman of mean e efficacy of ate up with pride a bottle of w a very strange Netherf of a man understanding, etry in driving every day good breeding creature by wa little information ay love! of a friend! and uncertain temper

the work of ma generations

two of the silliest girls ii the country the promise of balls and young men barefaced questions, ingenious suppositions, and distant surmises astonishment bordering on alarm

genuine frankness PRIDE & PREJUDICE

SHAKESPEARE THE PARLOR GAME

A laugh-out-loud mash-up party game for everyone, whether you love Shakespeare's works, or loathe them.

$24.99 • Boxed game of cards  $4^{1}/8$ " x  $6^{2}/5$ " x  $2^{1}/2$ 4+ players 9781423656647

Instructions for play:

- Each player begins with ten white response cards. Each response card is a word or phrase pulled directly from one of Shakespeare's plays.
- one of Shinkespeare's plays.

  2. The last person to have read or seen a Shikespeare play (or a Shakespeare adaptation) will go first as the Parloe Game. Judge. The Judge randomly selects one black prompt card from the box and reads the prompt alcod.
- From the treat the players then choose a response eard from their dealt hand that best completes the prompt. Chosen cards are placed face down in front of the judge.
- The judge collects the cards, gives them a brief shuffle (to keep the cards anonymous), and proceeds to read the response cards aloud.
- The judge selects which response card is the best fit for their prompt card.
- Whosever response card is chosen is the winner of that round and keeps the black prompt card.
- All players (except the judge) replenish their hand; everyone should always have ten response cards to choose from.
- Move counterclockwise to determine the order of the next Parlor Game Judge.
- 9. The game is won when a single player has collected ten

FIND MORE PARLOR GAMES AT LOVELITGIFTS.COM.

DRACULA THE PARLOR GAME

A laugh-out-loud mash-up party game for everyone, inspired by Bram Stoker's Dracula.

$24.99 • Boxed game of cards 4<sup>1</sup>/8" x 6<sup>2</sup>/5" x 2<sup>1</sup>/2 4+ players 9781423656654

Instructions for play:

- Each player begins with ten white response cards. Each response card is a word or phrase pulled directly from Bram Stoker's Dynavia.
- Beam NOMET'S LORGAM.

  2. The last person to have read Dracula (or seen a movie adaptation) will go first as the Parlor Game Judge. The Judge randomly selects one black prompt card from the box and reads the prompt aloud.
- one and reads me prompt aroud.

  3. The rest of the players then choose a response card from their dealt hand that best completes the prompt. Chosen cards are placed face down in front of the judge.
- The judge collects the cards, gives them a brief shuffle (to keep the eards anonymous), and proceeds to read the response cards aloud.
- The judge selects which response card is the best fit for their prompt card.
- Whosever response card is chosen is the winner of that round and keeps the black prompt card.
- All players (except the judge) replenish their hands everyone should always have ten response cards to choose from.
- Move counterclockwise to determine the order of the next Parlor Game Judge.
- 9. The game is won when a single player has collected ten

FIND MORE PARLOR GAMES AT LOVELITGIFTS.COM.

a crucifix a series of terrible havoc a devouring a very stormy all sorts of a dog howling great fires on five separate monster in experience all night under queer dream occasions embryo my window

the selfthat awful den surrender of the wreaths the endless something the wanton hellish infamy of transparent perspective of Un-Dead either were-wolf devotion jagged rock and gloom or vampire pointed crags DRACULA

